Inspections and testing

Periodic electrical inspections

All fixed electrical items within a commercial building are required to be tested and inspected every 5 years, as stipulated by the Electricity at Work Regulations.

These tests are often referred to as Periodic electrical inspections, or Fixed electrical testing.

As the name suggests, this type of testing refers to electrical items that are fixed and permanent within your business premises, e.g. plug sockets, lights, extractor fans.

Abbot Fire Group's specialist qualified technician can undertake your periodic electrical inspections when required, giving you peace of mind that your fixed electrical items have been tested.

Portable appliance testing (PAT)

Often referred to as PAT testing, or PAT inspection, this is the process of testing to ensure all electrical items within your workplace are safe. It covers all items that require electricity to operate, and has to be undertaken on a regular basis.

Whatever your commercial premises, office, warehouse, or retail outlet, your electrical items need to be PAT tested regularly to ensure they remain safe to operate.

Minimal disruption

If you're looking for PAT testing for a school, care home, or nursing home, we can work with you to arrange a convenient time to undertake the testing with minimal disruption to your business.
